New Fuel Drip Mat Protects Environment

By Tom Richardson on June 16th, 2010

The Chadd Padd is a reusable mat designed to sop up fuel or oil before it reaches the water. That's good for the environment, and might even save you a fine. The 10" x 10" bib-like device fits over the fill ports of most recreational boats and can absorb up to 4.5 oz. of fuel or oil. It is anti-static treated, and can also be used as a drip pad when changing or refilling hydraulic fluid. The Chadd Padd has a suggested retail price of $10 for 6 mats, while a roll of 36 sells for $35. For more information, contact Chadd Padd (888-393-8358).
